Detailed Action

This application is a continuation in part of 10/427160, filed April 30, 2003, which is a continuation-in-part of PCT/US02/15876, filed May 17, 2002, which claims benefit of provisional applications: 60/292217, filed May 18, 2001, 60/306883, filed July 20, 2001, 60/311865, filed August 13, 2001, and 60/362016, filed March 6, 2002. Application 10/427160 is also a continuation-in-part of PCT/US03/05346, filed February 20, 2003, which claims benefit of the following provisional applications: 60/358580, filed February 20, 2002, 60/363124, filed March 11, 2002, 60/386782, filed June 6, 2002, 60/406784, filed August 29, 2002, 60/408378, filed September 5, 2002, 60/409293, filed September 9, 2002, and 60/440129, filed January 15, 2003. Claims 1-21 are pending in this application and subject to restriction herein.

Restriction/Election

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-4, 7-9, 12-14, and 17-19, drawn to a compound of formula 107, classified in class 552, subclass 506, for example.
- II. Claims 5-6, 10-11, 15-16, and 20-21, drawn to a compound of formula 119, classified in class 536, subclass 17.9, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are directed to related products. The related inventions are distinct if the (1) the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect; (2) the inventions do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; and (3) the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, the inventions as claimed possess different and unrelated functional groups. The cholesterol-containing compounds of group I possess a different core structure from the carbohydrate derivatives of group II. When applied to a biological system, these two classes of compounds are expected to behave differently and to exert different biological effects. For example, cholesterol is a highly lipophilic compound which would be effective at anchoring the molecule to a lipid bilayer, while carbohydrates are hydrophilic moieties which may interact with a variety of physiological receptors or other proteins. Therefore, the linked nucleic acids of groups I and II are expected to possess differing biological properties when administered in vivo. Furthermore, the inventions as claimed do not encompass overlapping subject matter and there is nothing of record to show them to be obvious variants.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Stephen H. Docter on September 6, 2006 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
